What we're about

With over 17 years of experience in greenhouse cultivation, starting from the year 2005, our farm has developed a high level of expertise in cultivating plants in greenhouses. This includes expertise in cultivating both cannabis and hemp.

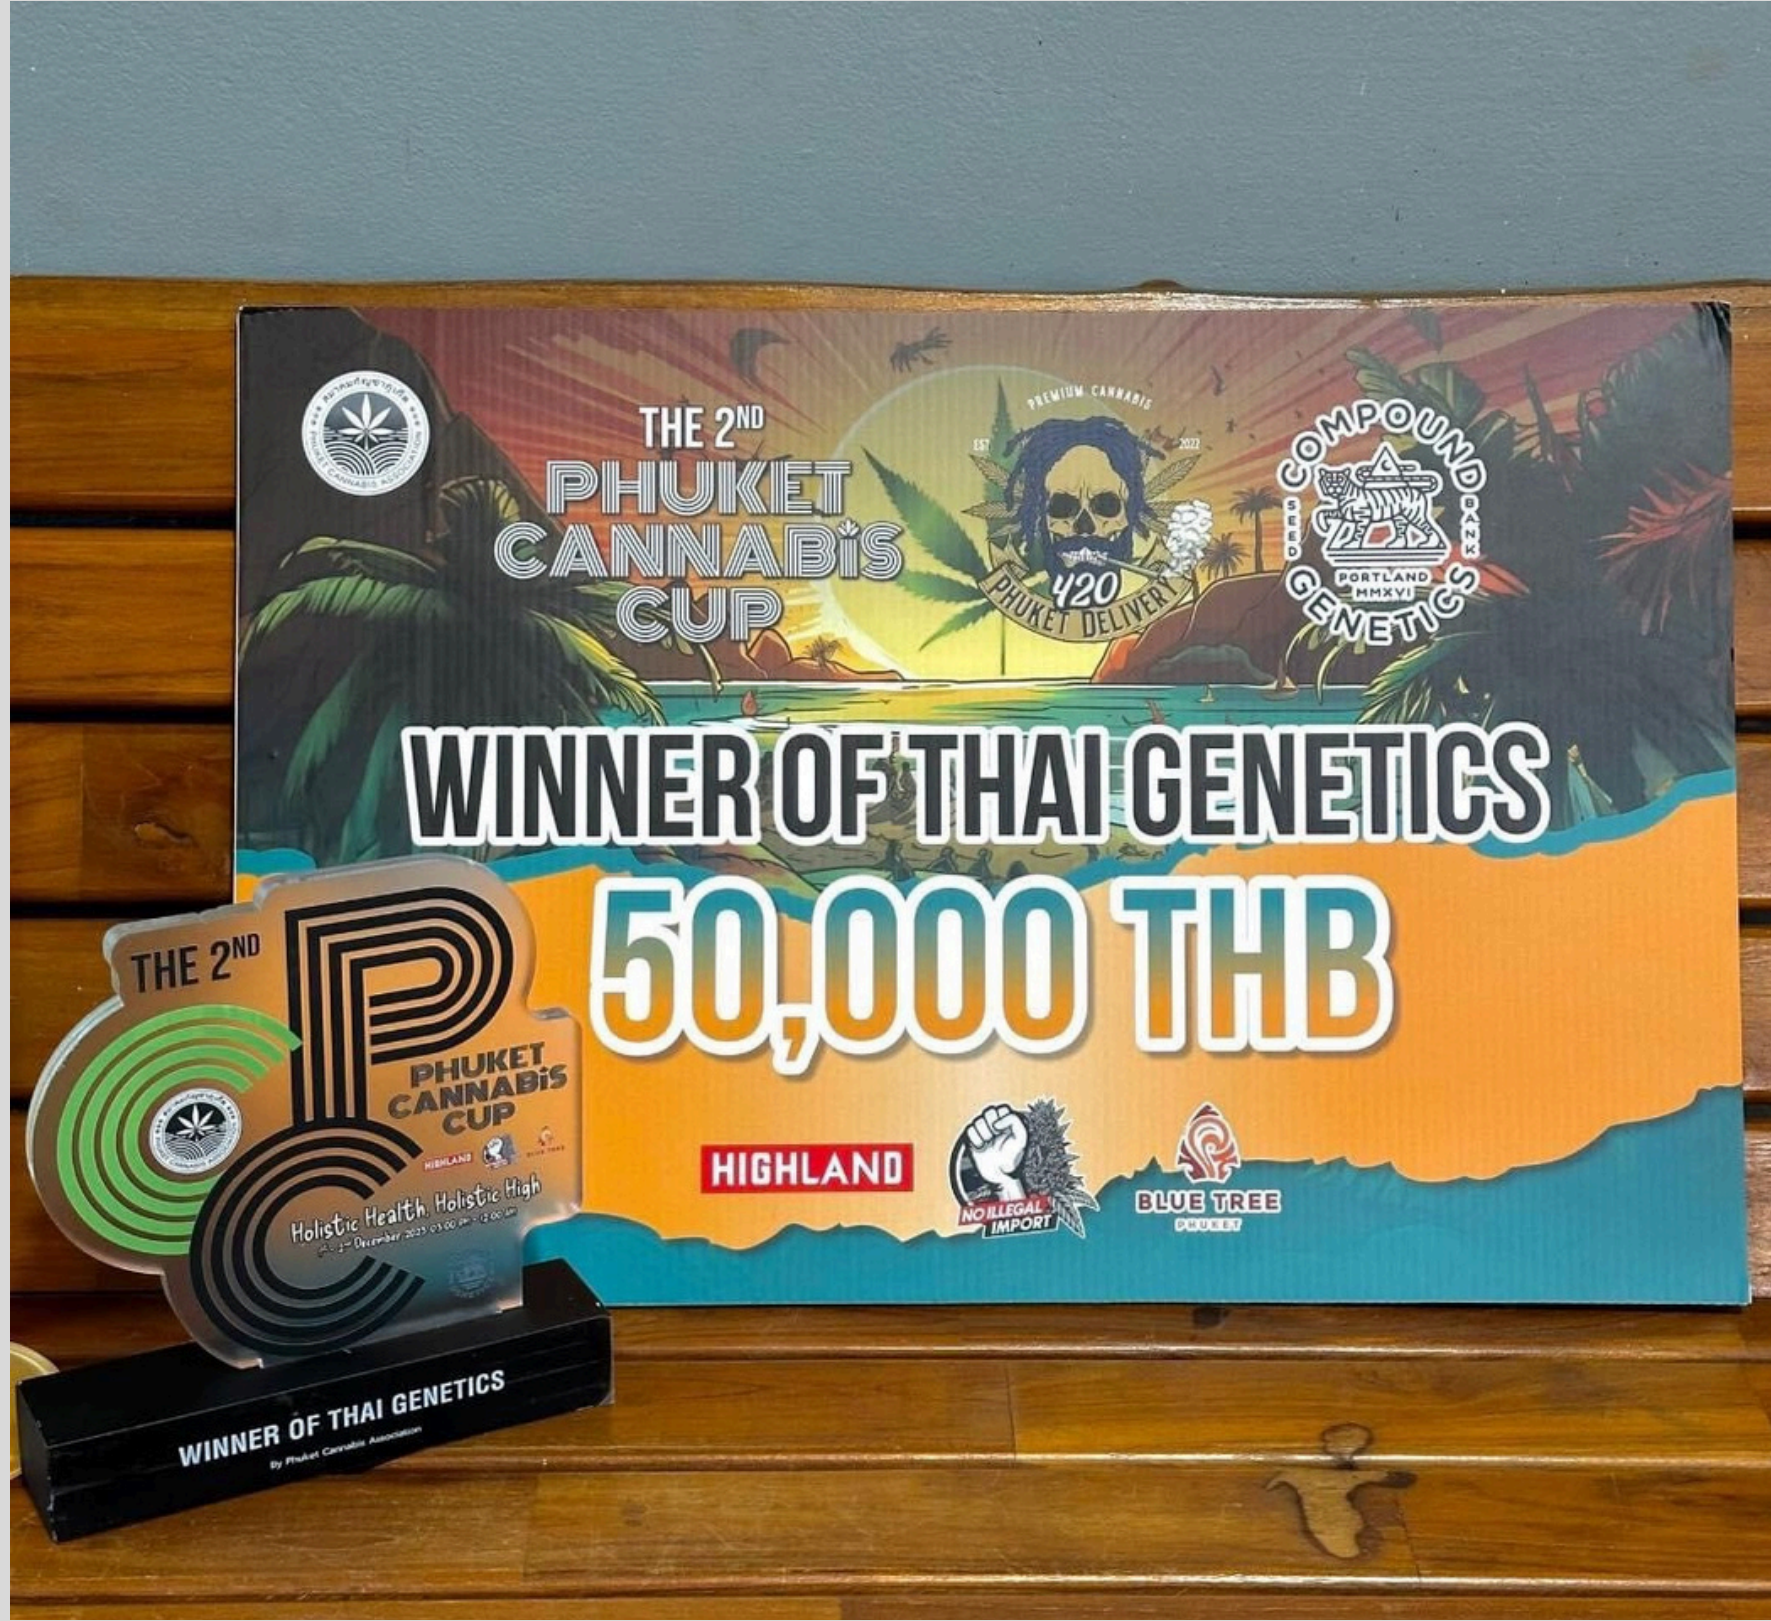

Our farm controls various growth factors such as growing medium, water sources and light to optimize plant growth. We have also improved and customized our own nutrient formulations to suit different plant species for our terrain. As a result, plants grown on our farm will thrive, be robust, and have high-quality output each harvest. We strive to provide customers with products that are rich in quality and ensure the utmost satisfaction.
